About The Theme Of The Seminar

Technological advances have greatly changed the way people access information & communicate with each other. User expectations have also changed due to digitization & interconnectivity. It is challenging for libraries & library and information science professionals to adapt these trends & technologies in satisfying the changing user demands.

Library Services are not limited to being content provider of print materials and digital collections, but also have a broader role in providing learning services like digital literacy, knowledge contexts, encourage space facilities such as Makerspaces, and provide Research services which include Digital scholarship, Data management, Data analytics which helps both students and faculty to utilize information.

In spite of availability of many web technology tools for information access, there is lack of awareness about knowledge resources & technologies among academics & research community.

Seminar on "Integrating Library System and services for Quality Education" will discuss these new technologies which have redefined & reshaped library and library professionals. It will also provide an opportunity to academic & research community to know more about online resources.
